Do what you love. Love what you do.

At Workday, we help the world’s largest organizations adapt to what’s next by bringing finance, HR, and planning into a single enterprise cloud. We work hard, and we’re serious about what we do. But we like to have fun, too. We put people first, celebrate diversity, drive innovation, and do good in the communities where we live and work.

About the Team

We’re looking for curious, creative and ambitious designers to join the Workday Peakon Employee Voice product team in London.

You’ll work closely with senior product designers on various key features across the Peakon platform and mobile apps. You’ll get to collaborate with multi-disciplinary teams made up of engineers, product managers, UX researchers, data scientists, and more

About the Role

Together with your cross-functional partners, you’ll help drive the design process and shape a shared understanding of the problem space.

- Collaborate with our senior designers on key features for the Peakon platform.
- Design new experiences for our users, while considering their needs and business objectives.
- Work with our Design System and follow design patterns, components and best practices.
- Design with accessibility in mind, being aware of key requirements and principles of accessible product design.
- Work with the user researchers to better inform designs from the users’ point of view.
- Collaborate with cross-discipline team members to identify usability concerns within the product, select the best methodology to clarify the issues, and present recommendations for improvements.

About You

- Currently completing a BA/Bsc in UX or related field.
- Familiarity with user centered design and research methodologies.
- Strong collaborator and communicator, with the ability to confidently share with cross-discipline stakeholders. For example, business leaders, engineers, researchers.
- Solid design skills – layout, typography, colour, design patterns.
- Experience with design and prototyping software (we use Figma).
- Analytical, problem solving and critical thinking skills.

Overall, the most important thing is that you have a strong interest in what you do and have a willingness to learn.
